

BLESSING IN DISGUISE ©2020 Holly Arntzen/Kevin Wright

There are blue skies in China for the first time in forever
With the factories being shut down, the air is getting clearer
Many things we know today can be gone tomorrow
And I know the fear is real, Oh but it's a blessing in disguise

You can see the Himalayas for the first time in forever
And the stars in the night sky from the rooftops of the people
You can clearly see the skyline of the City of Angels
And I know the fear is real, Oh but it's a blessing in disguise

These are the risks we're taking, changes we're making
We can keep our heads together and come through this all right
Listen to the planet singing, voices are ringing
This is a new song shining a light

Everybody stays apart and the world comes together
Finding love in the distance. With the right motivation
Many things we know today can be changed tomorrow
I know the fear is real, Oh but it's a blessing in disguise